Commissary Expiration Dates and Birthdays Synchrony

This article is something I imagine is reflective of what occurs in many, if not most of your lives—if you'll notice it.

The subject of this story is a dormmate, "Lucky", whose bunk is 90° from mine. Actually, there are two stories. ^(that I've had in prison, until Estrella)

One is that ~4 days ago, my bestie[^], Charlie Black (used to go by "Chrystain Fairbanks," I've written about him several times before) was telling more about how two days before I showed up here (moved by officers edict) on 12/15, he prayed that I'd come here. He was describing how he was sitting with a couple of his friends (where we were presently sitting), and when I showed up at the door, he told them, "There he is—my prison dad." He gave the names of the friends: Andrew & Lucky. A few seconds after Charlie told me that, Lucky walked up to say "Hi". Synchronicity. Divine guidance.

The other story is that a couple of days ago, after commissary arrived, Lucky was looking through his stuff and exclaimed, "The expiration date on these ~~so~~ Root Beer Barrels is my birthday, 3/18, and the year of my rehearing." A few minutes later, he said, "Hey, the expiration on this Mountain Dew, 2/16/26 is a day beyond my daughter's b-day." Not long after that, he said, "The expiration date on this Ranch, 10/9/26, is two less than my wife's b-day, so three of four of my items tie to birthdays in my life. This other ranch's expiration date is 9/25/26."

I said, "That's my dad's b-day." ☺ I added that 925 ties to my full name. "David Allan", my dad's name, is my middle and last name. Sterling is defined as 925 parts silver. I was born at 9:25 am.

That order was fulfilled before I moved to this dorm. God knows all, was able to coordinate this.

Alphabetics (AOS) alignments are like this - God's foreknowledge, "who hath declared from the beginning [ancient scripture text], that we may know [things in our time in minute detail]..." (Isa. 41:26).

What I didn't say was that the following verse is on p. 925 of the Bible:

"Therefore my people shall know my name: therefore they shall know in that day that I am he that doth speak: behold, it is I." (Isa. 52:6)
