

Why Are Conservatives^{Are} So Hesitant to Accept Obvious Conclusions

To: Epoch Times Editorials

Alex Jones

Cc: ← Glenn Beck; ^{Buck Sexton} Sean Hannity; Buck Sexton vs.

by Sterling D. Allan, 228033

Sept. 7, 2022

Over the past three years, as I've tuned in to conservative media (KNRS in ^{and more recently} SLC; KRAV TV) nearly every waking hour, I have been repeatedly astonished at how slow they are to acknowledge the obviousness of ^{they}

This was most obvious during the 2020 election. Show after show would set forth blatant evidence of massive fraud. ^{(BTW,} the very fact that the Democrats were saying there was "no evidence," itself was perhaps the best evidence of this overwhelming steal by them. Yet even while setting forth the evidence via interviews with highly credible sources, the hosts would express doubt. I know they're not stupid, but there they were, wondering if it was light outside in the midst of the noontime sun. And they were all doing this, some more than others.

If I were doing a show, I would have frequently aired Joe Biden saying (in a glorious Freudian slip), "We have put together the propaganda plays, who is asked who of chocolate

the child who is remnants of
"Not me," with
took the cookie, responding chasing around their mouth.

#, saying the quiet part out loud.

(2)

most extensive voter fraud organization in history." (Oct. 24, 2020; per Limbaugh show, 11/6/20 ~11:45 am Mountain.) That nails it, from the chief beneficiary and traitor. So, why are these conservative talk show hosts so cautious ~~sympathetic~~ about calling it what it is? The emperor has no clothes. We all see it. Why don't they say it? This shows how effective the Marxists' mind-manipulation propaganda methods are in steering public opinion.

But one of the most effective methods is controlled opposition ^(wolf in sheep's clothing) — getting a powerful voice on the "conservative" side to pretend to be a stalwart Christian patriot who the people will trust because he talks like them — on most issues; but on key issues, they steer the thinking into confusion rather than clarity. # people I am convinced are playing this role are Glenn Beck (2 star) # and Buck Sexton (took over Limbaugh's spot, along with ^{and maybe Sean Hannity} Clay Travis). # On key issues, they ^{cooperate} with the establishment line. And most other conservative voices follow, ignorantly, not realizing they're being played, thus amplifying the propagandist messages. They'll say:

"There were irregularities in ^{the} 2020 election, but not enough to overcome the gap." (Since when

also I recently saw the video clip on RDU TV.

After careful scrutiny, some of the [Yes, I'm aware of some of the myriad of fantastical things he does] (coda fan of)

has any cheating been okay? Isn't it is a felony — making a person ineligible for office?)

• "9/11 was not an inside job." (See my ^{8/21/22} editorial:
"9/11 Inside Job")

• "Hunter Biden is a scumbag." (Yes, but far more importantly,
he's a pawn of his treasonous Father.)

Just as the biggest threat to America comes from ^{within, primarily via} the Marxist conspirators who have infiltrated every sector of society, so also has

that penetration of the conservative voices

for decades has been hobbling the awakenedness of God's people. Did you ever wonder why

Rush Limbaugh never gave calls to action?

He opposed voices ^{that} said 9/11 was an inside job. He was timid ^{even} on ^{that} hinting the 2020 election.

Most significantly, he was a nemesis for Alex
Jones, steering people away from his light.

Those things all point to his having been controlled opposition — and extremely good at it.

At a bare minimum, he was ^{strongly} influenced by them. ^{for 30+ years of leading broadcasting.} Definitely not an Alex Jones

Sterling D. Allan

Intl Coming.com

Key Controlled Opposition

might be have been stolen.
Just
before he

He drummed the message
was okay.

